NEW-YORK, TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 29, 1341.

REMAINS OF GEN. HARRISON .- The body of the ciately decorated with mourning emblems, and the olved to accompany the Committee to Columbia.

More of the Ship William Brows.-Time cannot anding the loss of the ship William Brown on the sential portion of the statement; mate the ed a tall negro, one of the crev everboard, but when he saw my knife he went forward again.

And leat the others a hand. My companion stack close to purse a number of sovereigns and offered the crew, but they were thrown as ide and himself passed overboard. A lad of bout 18 years of age requested time to say his prayers, which was granted, and when he concluded he said, "I am the prepared—I do not wish you to throw me overboard—I will go sayself," and he stepped off the gunwale of the boat the sea. Of all who were thrown overboard, not one, tamy knowledge, succeeded in getting on board again .bere were no hands cut off, nor any blood spilt; neither did eyone, excepting the young man aiready mentioned, jump Subsard voluntarily. The unfortunate passengers offered breastance; prayers and entreaties were all they used.—

"Oh! spare me! spare me!" several of them craed, even that they were half overboard. I will not attempt a dethis they were half overboard. I will not attempt a de-semble of this awful scene—it would melt a heart of stone. Baines an account has been laid before the House of Conere there were sixteen thrown overboard.

The boat was baled out after she had been lightened ; she then rode very well, and made but little water. my indignation against the negro that, upon reaching the Crescent deck, I seized a heaver and threw it at his head.
